What to do in 2014?

Denton, TX – Wow, it’s the end of the year . . . already? As you can see by the Events Calendar to the left, January will be busy, just like all the other months. How great to be part of such an active and vital Chapter?

We will soon have a ‘place to call home’, to socialize, to break bread, to be with men who gave their best. I cannot thank those who gave so many hours; both our brothers at VVA 920 and some outside volunteers. I hope you have taken a moment to look at the pictures on the Web (VVA920.org). Wow!

Hey, meeting attendees, we need Protein Bars, Beef Jerky, Gummy Candy, Life Savers and Trail Mix for our ‘care packages’ to the troops. Let’s do it!

Vietnam Veterans, Brothers Forever!

Merry Christmas, Brothers!

“The first five days after the weekend are always the hardest!”

You have enemies? Good. That means you’ve stood up for something, sometime in your life.
-- Quote by Winston Churchill

" What is life? It is the flash of a firefly in the night. It is the breath of a buffalo in the wintertime. It is the little shadow which runs across the grass and loses itself in the sunset."

‘Crowfoot’

Blackfoot warrior and orator (1821-1890)

My answer is “be gracious and show respect for who you are”. . . who we are.

Vietnam vet can't find words to acknowledge public thanks

Dear Abby: My husband served in Vietnam and proudly wears a Vietnam veteran insignia on his jacket or cap everywhere he goes. People approach him all the time and thank him for his service, which is wonderful. The big question is, how should he respond? He isn't quite sure what to say back to them — “You're welcome”? “It was my honor to serve”? “Thank you for caring”?

I'm not sure of the right response, either. So I told my husband I'd ask you. What's the proper thing to say when someone is kind enough to take a minute and say thanks?

Vet's Wife in Phoenix

Dear Vet's Wife: I'm sure being thanked for his service in Vietnam is music to your husband's ears. When members of the military returned from Vietnam, many of them were treated with hostility. A proper response when someone thanks him for his service would be any of those you offered, or a simple, “Thanks for saying that. I appreciate it.”

Dear Abby
